

House Member
From Glen Rose
Sworn in Friday

AUSTIN, Texas — J. E. Ward of Glen Rose, elected to the House of Representatives in a January special election, Friday was sworn in as a member by House Speaker Waggoner Carr.

Ward thus became a duly qualified member of the House, although he will not get to serve a day as a member during a meeting unless Gov. Price Daniel calls a special session.

Ward was elected Jan. 9 to fill the unexpired term of Rep. Ted Myatt, who resigned to become Johnson County Judge. Ward is now campaigning for a full term in the district which comprises Johnson, Hood and Somervell Counties. He operates a cleaning and pressing establishment and is distributing agent for daily newspapers in Glen Rose.

Accompanying him here for the swearing in at the rostrum of the house was Somervell County Judge Temple Summers.
